BERLIN, Sept. 2.—The German army is steadily closing off the Polish corridor from Pomerania, the German high command stated in a communique issued at 3:20 p. m. today (10:20 a. m. E. D. T.).

Berlin, Sept. 2.—Rapid advances toward "certain goals" in Poland have been made by the German army, authoritative military quarters asserted today as hostilities went into their second day and indications arose that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler may try to avert war by presenting Great Britain and France with a "fait accompli."

State Of War Does Not Exist

While the British and French ambassadors awaited a reply from the Fuehrer to their governments' demands for suspension of military operations, responsible quarters at noon stressed the fact that diplomatic channels were still open and that a "state of war" does not exist.

This situation, it is considered in Berlin, might enable Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Premier Edouard Daladier to tactfully shelve their obligations to Poland when Hitler is able to advise them.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Great Britain and France are sending a new ultimatum to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today, warning that they can wait only an "extremely limited" time for a reply to their demand for cessation of military operations in Poland.

The note in reality means that Britain and France are now demanding an immediate answer.

The communication will be dispatched by the end of the afternoon.

Close Bottleneck

Berlin, Sept. 2.—The German military high command today announced that German troops had closed off the bottleneck of the Polish corridor coincident with reports in Berlin that France was favorably inclined to an offer by Premier Mussolini to mediate the whole European crisis.

New Attack On Poland

London, Sept. 2.—Using all the war planes at their disposal, German military forces launched a terrific new aerial bombardment of southern Poland at 3 p. m. today (10 a. m. E. D. T.), according to an announcement by the Polish embassy in London.

Cracow was subjected to intensive bombing, the announcement said, as well as the so-called "holy town" of Czestochowa and the towns of Zawiez and Sosnowsk.

Must Withdraw Troops

Paris, Sept. 2.—If Nazi Germany withdraws its troops within the Reich's own frontiers and new "honest proposals of reconciliation" are offered, the French government remains ready to negotiate, Premier Edouard Daladier told an emergency session today.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The cabinet of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain assembled at 10 Downing street at 4:30 p. m. today (11:30 a. m. E. D. T.).

Chamberlain is now expected to make his delayed statement to the house of commons around 9 p. m. (4 p. m. E. D. T.).

Addresses Postponed

London, Sept. 2.—Without explanation, the scheduled address of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain outlining Great Britain's fateful decision in the light of Germany's invasion of Poland was postponed today.

When the house of commons assembled at 2:45 p. m. (9:45 a. m. E. D. T.) as scheduled, Chamberlain was understood to have enlarged his cabinet to include four new members, including Winston Churchill, automatically slated for inclusion when a "war government" was decided upon.

The Prime Minister, however, was not present when the house met for an extraordinarily brief session and did not make the statement he had planned.

Poland Announces State Of War Exists

By JAMES E. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WARSAW, Sept. 2.—"A state of war exists" between Poland and Germany, it was announced officially today by the Polish government.

The announcement was made as German troops pushed into Poland on three major fronts with the object of cutting off the Polish corridor and while German war planes roared over the country, bombing Warsaw and other Polish cities and causing numerous civilian casualties.

To deal with the situation, President Ignace Moscicki granted Marshal Edward Smigly-Ridz chief of the Polish armed forces, widespread powers to direct national defense.

Warsaw authorities declared a heavy battle was in progress along the Silesian front and that many German tanks had been destroyed.

They added that a total of 34 German planes had been shot down, 18 of them since last night, when a previous announcement said 16 had been brought down. Up to 10:30 p. m. yesterday, authorities said, two Polish pursuit planes had been brought down.

(International News Service)
WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 2.—The sound of marching feet will resound along America's border Monday—peacefully, however—as Canada's general mobilization plan goes into action throughout the dominion, it was announced today.

Windsor's quota of 688 men will be absorbed into the famed Essex Scottish regiment. Announcement of the recruiting came from Col. A. A. Pearson, who said:

"Recruiting will probably start on Monday."

This was in line with Canada's pledge of support to the mother country, England, in the face of a possible declaration of war against Germany expected today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Government officials today united in urging a "business as usual" program for the United States as they geared the machinery of financial and economic agencies to cushion business against the shock of a general European war.

Some lines of business may gain sharply. Others may lose. But high government officials agreed that chaos could and would be avoided.

Sharp fluctuations on both the stock and commodity markets were watched. Governmental intervention will be avoided, it was indicated, unless the situation speedily changes.

President Will Outline Position Of America

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—America organized today under the guidance of President Roosevelt to preserve and insure her neutrality as Europe's battlefields one more ran red with blood.

Citizens from every walk of life awaited the President's broadcast tomorrow night which the White House said would be an informative message—a statement of position—tending to relieve anxiety and allay suspense.

Refreshed by a night's rest, Mr. Roosevelt today faced the task of giving this momentous address, which may well become one of the most important in his career. He already has said he believed the United States could keep out of Europe's wars and has pledged every effort of his administration to that end.

The White House was gratified by the unanimity with which the nation rallied behind the president as Germany flung her armed forces at Poland and defied England and France. Expressions such as that last night over the radio by former President Herbert Hoover calling on the country to support the executive and the congress in their moves to preserve neutrality were particularly well received.

Says Germany Has Not Declared War

Berlin Says Germany Merely "Rectifying" Her Eastern Frontier

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 2.—Germany has not declared war upon Poland and the present situation is not considered as a state of war, German political circles stated today, according to a Reuters dispatch from Berlin.

The dispatch quoted informed sources as saying that other powers were not officially notified of Germany's action in Poland "because it was clearly stated by the Fuehrer at the Reichstag meeting, which was attended by diplomatic representatives of the other great powers."

It was stated that there is no intention on Germany's part to bring about a complete change in Poland. The dispatch asserted that Germany would merely "rectify" her eastern frontier, it was said in Berlin, according to Reuters.

Community Prepares To Observe Labor Day

While the Labor Day celebration here Monday will not be as elaborate perhaps as those of other years, it promises to attract a crowd to Cascade park where a full program will be presented by the New Castle Trades and Labor Assembly.

With the coming of Labor Day, summer bows out, not by the calendar but by custom. Vacations end, school starts, white suits are put away and folks turn their attention to the early reports of some football finds who will represent their college this year.

It will be the last big day in Cascade park for the year, the last chance for the concessionaires to get a break, the last day to expect any crowd. After Labor Day, amusement and recreation parks fold up like a 79-cent umbrella.

There will be no parade in New Castle on Monday. Instead the labor union delegations will go directly to Cascade park where the program will start early in the afternoon. Sports for the youngsters, prizes for everybody, basket picnics in the grove, a few short addresses, this program will comprise the day and it sounds plenty for hot weather.

As for the average citizen who has the day off in addition to Sunday, Labor Day is a chance to get in a double header of loafing. Motor trips, camping excursions, weekend picnics and just plain loafing, these will make the week-end for the most of us.

ment. The result has been that assessments have been very inequitable. Possibly there will never be an equitable assessment until a board of assessors cover the whole county. This would be the common sense method.

What's the matter with the tall corn stories, or better still, the tall corn? Pa Newc notes that there are some pretty fine fields in Lawrence county, but so far nobody seems to have been applying the yardstick. Usually we get enough corn in The News office to keep the family cow over winter, but the corn-fodder editor informs us that all the corn he has so far seen has been cut by the wayside. But we understand that the farmers are now cutting their corn, and we've whispered to our own that maybe she won't have to starve, after all.

Pa Newc notes that owners of large estates are donating them to municipalities for public parks. It is assumed that the owners do not care longer to carry the burden of taxes. Throughout the country there are thousands of properties not large enough for parks, but big enough to wear a tax collar. What is to become of them? The answer to that question can be found right here in New Castle, where several large properties have been sold recently for but a fraction of their cost and furthermore, for but a small percentage of what it would cost to build the houses right now. The tax problem has been at the bottom of these sales.

Lawrence county farmers report that the early potato crop this year has been disappointing. The potatoes have been rather small and few in a hill. The early drought is supposed to have been responsible for this condition. More hope is entertained for the late crop, which is now being planted. The recent dry spell has dampened some of this enthusiasm. Tops are still green in many fields, however, and the little spuds, nestled at the roots, are hoping for a wet nurse.

On entering a small town on a recent trip Pa Newc was greeted by a big sign hung across the roadway which read, "The Friendly Town". He stopped to look around, went into several stores, an eating house and a gas station, and everywhere he was shown so much attention that he was almost embarrassed. Even a policeman walked a block of the place. Pa Newc left the town feeling glad that he had stopped. The town's nothing that helps a town or city like the friendliness of its citizens.

Next Monday, Labor Day, there are likely to be a number of killed and injured in Pennsylvania as a result of motor accidents. Every holiday seems to take its toll. Whether it is because there are more drivers on the road, or because they are more reckless, Pa Newc is not prepared to say, but he will say that many of the accidents which are likely to occur would be avoidable if everybody used the care and caution that they should. When the death and accident toll of Labor Day is announced on next Tuesday, let it be said that there were no serious accidents in Lawrence county. You can help to make this wish come true.

The coming week will be one of unusual activity for candidates who will be busy inspecting their fences for loose rails, preliminary to the big drive on September 12. So far the campaign has been unusually quiet, and it's anybody's guess who are going to jump these stake-and-ride fences into the nomination pastures. So far as the betting is concerned, nobody seems to be giving any odds on anybody. This uncertainty is what makes the campaign interesting.

Neutrality Law Application Will Not Be Speeded

President Delays Any Action Along This Line—May Harbor Peace Hope

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Perhaps with a flickering hope that Europe may yet be halted at the brink of war, the White House made plain today that President Roosevelt would not be "rushed" into application of the stringent U. S. neutrality law.

A spokesman for the president pointed out that the imposition of "vitality important" restrictions on American commerce and shipping would not be required under the neutrality law until a state of actual war existed among the powers abroad.

England and France have not declared war, this spokesman emphasized. He then cited the Sino-Japanese war in which this government has steadfastly refrained from application of the neutrality laws.

The president and secretary of state Cordell Hull kept closest watch on the military as well as political maneuvers in Europe. Mr. Roosevelt consulted with Admiral Walter S. Anderson, chief of naval intelligence, and Col. John Magruder, assistant chief of army intelligence, to keep his "war map" up to date.

With President Roosevelt urging neutrality and expressing conviction that America can stay out of war, officials evinced the hope that industry and the people generally will go ahead in an effort to expand business along normal lines.

In 1914, officials pointed out, the stock market was demoralized and closed for weeks. Movement of American exports was brought to a virtual standstill.

During the recent crisis, it was pointed out, British currency has nose-dived was scarcely any effect upon American markets.

Officials minimized a frequently expressed fear that European nations would cause demoralization in security markets by rushing to convert their American securities into cash for war purchases.

Lower Than In 1914
The treasury estimated Europeans hold $2,700,000,000 in securities as compared to a much larger amount in 1914.

While the neutrality act, with its embargo on shipments of arms, munitions and implements of war, would prevent an immediate boom in sales of these American products, European nations would be expected to make other purchases such as chemicals, food supplies and metals.

Much German, British and French foreign trade with neutral countries is certain to fall to the United States, officials said. A sharp increase in sales to South America is forecast.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace warned farmers against immediate expansion of production in the hope of realizing war price. He pointed out that prices of corn, hogs and beef were lower the year after the World War began in 1914. Later, of course, prices zoomed upwards, but normal production plans, just as other officials hoped industry would do the same.

major Polish cities, was presumed to be continuing its "cooperation" with the land forces.

The situation, according to overnight advices, is this:
An estimated million Germans, in three major armies, have struck from Pomerania, heading straight east across the Polish Corridor; northeast and east from Silesia, and southeast from East Prussia.

Advancing 30 miles into a wide part of the Polish Corridor from Pomerania, according to advices from Berlin, the Pomeranian force last night threatened to choke off Poland's outlet to the sea.

Germany claimed that the armies plunging from Silesia into southwestern Poland, across extremely difficult terrain, were within 30 miles of Cracow, important railroad division point far up the Vistula river.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL WEDS IN OHIO CITY

Of interest to a wide circle of New Castleites is the marriage of a former resident, Miss Betty Jane Baum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Baum of 111 Hollywood avenue, Youngstown, O., and Carl Baumgardner, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Baumgardner of Volney road, also Youngstown.

The ceremony was celebrated in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Cubbison of 378 Midlothian boulevard, in the Ohio city, on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, with an assemblage of over a hundred guests present.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractive in her wedding gown of ocean mist blue marquisette, patterned toe length, and her matching finger tip veil was caught in cap effect. She carried a colonial bouquet of delphinium and pink rose buds, and her only jewelry was a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

The Rev. C. J. Stafford, pastor of the First Christian church in the Ohio city, officiated before an improvised altar in the spacious living room. Ferns and palms, reflected in the glow of lighted cathedral candles, provided an exquisite setting. The single ring service was used.

Miss Betty Bridesbaugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Bridesbaugh of Edison avenue, this city, as maid of honor, was attired in a dusty pink chiffon toe length gown, and carried a colonial bouquet of tea roses and gladioli. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Billie Lewis of Pittsburgh, who appeared in a stone blue net over pink taffeta, made similar, and her bouquet matched that of the maid of honor, while Miss Norma Jean Fishburn of this city, who lit the candles, wore a blue taffeta creation with fuchsia trimming. The bride attendants each received a pearl necklace from the bride.

Appropriate music was contributed preceding and during the ceremony by the soloist and organist of the bride's church.

Robert Baum, brother of the bride, served as best man.

A congratulatory period was followed by an informal reception with a buffet spread being served from a table prettily arranged in keeping with the nuptial motif. Pink and white tones prevailed.

Mrs. Baum wore for her daughter's wedding a tuscany grape crepe dress with shoulder bouquet of pink rose buds. Mrs. Baumgardner, the groom's mother, chose a blue net gown, and her shoulder bouquet was identical to the former's.

The couple left on a southern wedding trip, and upon returning will take up residence for the present at the Baumgardner home. For going away, the bride donned a burrundy crepe ensemble with matching accessories, and a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Baumgardner are high school graduates. She has been employed as a stenographer in an Ohio bank and he is connected with the steel corporation there as a machinist.

A number of local residents were in attendance at the wedding.

Supplementing the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride for friends and relatives. A light lunch was served to the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. McClure, departed later on a wedding trip, destination unknown. For traveling, the bride chose a black ensemble with beige accessories and a shoulder corsage of red roses. Upon their return they will reside at 207 West Madison avenue.

CELEBRATE ON MONDAY LABOR'S OWN DAY

LABOR DAY as a celebration was inaugurated in 1882 with a parade of the Knights of Labor in New York. In union history it was a time akin to the present in the restlessness of the newly organized and the dissipation of the energies of labor's leadership in internal politics and war.

The day then was one for display of numbers and solidarity; later it became a traditional occasion for counting current gains and losses in the union movement. It still is; though in a year like this, given over to constant preoccupation with the efforts of labor to live up to its new status, one day would seem as good as another for marking its position.

In numbers and the force which numbers signify in a democracy, it has never been so strong potentially. Its opportunities have never been so great. It is not in followers but in leadership that it falls short of the hopes of those who recognize the responsibilities of the union movement and the opportunity that has opened to it in recent times.

SCHOOL POPULATION FALLING

High schools of the country are handling the crest of a school-population wave, according to officials of the Office of Education in Washington. Meanwhile an ever-deepening trough is developing in the elementary-school population. Elementary schools had 800,000 fewer children in 1939 than in 1934. A drop of 90,000 is predicted by statisticians for the year just opened, to be followed by further rapid declines in subsequent years.

The situation reflects chiefly a declining birth rate. Probably drastic restrictions on immigration also have something to do with it.

Since the elementary school load is growing lighter at a somewhat faster rate than the secondary load is growing heavier, the net result is a falling off in the total load. Yet school budgets, generally speaking, are still rising. This is perhaps not surprising when it is borne in mind that per pupil costs are higher in the secondary schools than in the elementary grades.

School budgets from 48 states are said to show slightly enlarged teaching staffs, additional school materials, and smaller classes.

'BALD' TIRES BANNED

A new state law providing penalties for automobile owners who drive their autos on the public highways with dangerously "bald" tires is now in effect.

The law should be strictly enforced, especially at the beginning, in order to impress on Pennsylvania motorists the dangers of treadless tires. Automobile inspections required by law included examination of tires to see that they were not smooth and thin but the inspections are not frequent enough to keep automobiles with such tires off the highways.

A driver may be excused for some hidden mechanical defect which causes an accident but no person whose eyesight is sharp enough so that he can drive an automobile can escape noticing tires in poor condition.

The new law is going into effect at the proper time, too. In a few months the skidding season will be here. The blowout season, when paper-thin tires burst like penny balloons in the excessive heat, has just passed.

SHORTER DAYS ARE HERE

Spinning serenely on its way with its freight of fretful and warring mankind, Old Earth approaches the moment when the day and the night for all the globe will be of equal hours, except at the Poles, where twilight will last the clock around.

In anticipation, each day shaves a minute or two off its allowance of sunlight and forfeits it to the night. The days are shorter and the returning vacationist sadly notes the fact. The sun, contracting its path in the sky in the Northern Hemisphere as it sinks southward, is above the horizon about 13 hours, against 15 in June. Twelve hours of day and 12 hours of night will be the allotment when, three weeks hence, the sun will traverse the Equator.

Three months later daylight will last but nine hours and only those "down under" can be tan addicts.

Not even Old Earth can please all of the people all of the time; a great many of us hate to see Summer wane in spite of its heat waves, its humidity and radio propaganda to get us into war. Yet life on the planet would be an experience strangely different and far less interesting were it not that the axis of its spin, tipped toward the North Star, causes the sun to lavish its favors six months on the Northern Hemisphere and six months on the Southern, carving the year into four seasons, each possessed of its own charm.

THREE CENTURIES OF A FREE PRESS

The University Press at Harvard is properly proud of being the first printing establishment in Colonial United States, and the general observance this year of its 300th anniversary, including the issuance of a special postage stamp next month, naturally allies this nation's continuing development with the extension of the printing press.

Historians know the part Adam Ramage and George Clymer of Philadelphia had in improving mechanical printing devices, the latter bettering the Washington hand press screw with a system of levers in 1817-34, while, of course, Philadelphia's own Benjamin Franklin, master printer, remains, in every clime and country, a fitting symbol of the power and good fruits inherent in the press.

China was printing from wood blocks as early as 50 B. C. and using movable type in 1041, four centuries before Gutenberg printed his Bible. Spain and Switzerland had printing long before William Caxton set up his English press in 1476, and Giovanni Paoletti established a press in Mexico City a full century before Stephen Day and his son began at Cambridge. Printing in this country, like the Republic itself, is modern contrasted to man's ages-old thirst for knowledge.

It is important to note, however, that early America waited only briefly after Jamestown and Plymouth Rock to utilize the press for information, enlightenment, unification and concerted achievements for the public weal. Today, as in 1639, the press remains indispensable to a free and unopposed America. It is pertinently symbolic of this Nation's most zealously guarded traditions.

One of the most hilarious sights in recent weeks has been Tokyo's cry that she was double-crossed.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HEALTH FACTOR IN CHILD TRAINING

I am not a physician, though I wish I were. I hold no brief for the doctors. Indeed, I would like to see all people so healthy that we could put the doctors out of business. But to reduce the number of doctors needed in the future, we shall have to use the best-trained and most conscientious ones we now have more often, in order to keep us and our children well.

Lots of problems parents have with their children, as you know, are caused by the ill health of one or both parents. Nothing makes us lose self-control so readily, I guess, as ill health. Many a behavior problem in the child, even marital problems, could be solved if the mother could have more rest or proper medical care.

Health Factor Important

I wish we parents might get into the habit of having the doctor, also the dentist, check on us and our children at regular intervals. Besides, I wish that when we think we have behavior problems in our children, we would first have them carefully checked by a competent physician; sometimes we also seek the advice of the dentist or the eye specialist.

Many a child chronically ill-tempered, stubborn, or quarrelsome, different to his school work or lagging in his studies, may be suffering from some physical irregularity that could be corrected. Even if not corrected, our knowledge of its existence would make us more patient and considerate of the child, helping us, perhaps, to correct or mollify the mutual irritations between us and the child.

Sometimes bad behavior problems set off by some physical hindrance will persist from habit after the physical handicap has been corrected; or bad behavior problems will be rendered all the more acute because of physical obstacles.

Laggard In School

There's the school child with normal or superior ability to learn, who lags in school. A physician might find him undernourished, or lacking energy, or over-excitable because of glandular irregularity, improper diet or some local infection.

Think, then, of the children who are handicapped by poor hearing or poor vision. Any child poor in spelling or reading or any other school subject should have his sight and hearing checked.

Many who do well at school may be suffering from undue strain, particularly eye-strain. They may suffer from headaches or indicate a strained demeanor. In the use of such funds as we parents have, let's put the health problems of our children and ourselves first.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

POLAND

Poland as a kingdom came into the field of European history at the end of the Tenth Century. In the Eleventh Century Poland conquered Pomerania, defeated the pagan Prussians, and held Silesia against the head of the Holy Roman Empire.

The first partition of Poland came in the thirteenth century at the hands of the Mongols. In the sixteenth century the Polish kingdom came back, even annexing Galicia, and a little later, Lithuania.

In the middle of the Sixteenth Century the kingdom of Poland stretched across central Europe from the Baltic to the Dnieper with its western boundary less than ninety miles from Berlin and its eastern frontier about one hundred and fifty miles from Moscow.

Later came the elective system of kingship, with disastrous results. And so Polish ups and downs continued until the first great partition in 1772 between Russia, Prussia and Austria.

After the failure of Kosciuszko, the second "partition" was made in 1793.

Napoleon promised great things to Poland, but probably would not have made good, even if he had not suffered the Russian disaster.

So the Congress of Vienna made "partition" in 1813.

That, practically, was the end of Poland after the rearrangements of the map.

Is the Poland of Paderewski going to be partitioned again?

Call them cynics or pessimists, but many observers think so. It almost seems to be the fate of Poland to be divided as was Gaul, into three parts.

There are no braver people in Europe than the Poles, but their history, like that of the Irish, is made up of chapter after chapter of national frustration.

It Hitler makes a lightning thrust and succeeds before England and France can cause a diversion, Hitler and Stalin will be in a position to indulge in the ancient game of Polish "partition."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:31. Sun rises tomorrow 5:28.

You can tell the old-fashioned American. He is the one who isn't wearing his shirt tail hanging out.

One-half the world may not know how the other half lives, but it has to foot the bills, just the same.

In some ways the foreign dictators are like American politicians. They value promises about the same way.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES
"I can read your minds like a book," said the lecturer. "I can tell what each of you is thinking."

"Then why don't you go there?" called a voice from the back.

Even the smallest radio stations serve you well. It's nice to have somebody else change the records.

The president says radicals have some use because they have the imagination to think up answers to problems. The only trouble is that so often they are only imaginary answers.

When some people get back from their vacations they look as if they needed a rest. They probably move around more while away than they do on their jobs.

MODERN TOUCH
The success books tell us to work diligently for the boss and he will, in due time, see our merits and turn the business over for us to run. Which reminds us of a story: An energetic young man was called into the office by the boss.

"I have been watching you, Brown," said the boss. "You have tackled your job with an intelligence and determination that has been notable. Not the slightest thing seems to escape you and you work long hours to understand everything, even beyond your own duties."

The clerk began figuring what to do with the raise he was going to get.

"Yes, Brown," went on the boss. "You are indeed a young man of great promise. I therefore am forced to fire you before you learn all about the business and start a new business to compete with me."

Names are funny things. One is either compelled to try to live up to them or to live them down.

Did you ever see an ox roasted at an ox roast? Neither did we.

Coinage, minted in the United States during the year, amounts to $12,000,000, according to a newspaper item. However, it still seems to be just as hard to get change for a dollar from a taxi cab driver.

A Philadelphia court ruled that signers to local option petitions need not be registered voters. No doubt they don't have to be tax payers either. Too much free voting in this country.

THE INSIGNIFICANT MAN
Yet the people who judge by appearances alone are often deceived. Many insignificant looking people may have had interesting experiences, and be effective in their own lines of work. The unobtrusive looking fellow who looks as if he amounted to nothing may have proved a hero in the fighting in the Argonne, while the business men were adding up columns of figures at home. The rough looking countryman may be an extremely keen observer of life and have a clear vision of public policy which statesmen could well emulate. Great men have usually liked to get out among the common people and get their reactions from life. Abraham

Lincoln used to sit in the store hangouts and listen to the local characters talk. Many monarchs of the old world have made it their practice to wander incognito among their people and gain what wisdom they could from the common man. His point of view is based on practical experience and it can never be ignored.

One of nature's mysteries is why the mosquito you cannot find in the dark always manages to find you.

It was decided by women in Pasadena, Cal., if father would keep out of the kitchen he wasn't a bad person to help out along other lines of housework. Maybe doing all the rest of it.

JOINT LIVING
"Why don't you ever put the small, inner sticks of the celery on the table?" asked a woman.

"Why do you like them?" asked the maid.

"Certainly I do."

"Then, were just alike, I do, too."

In the old days women in the country dried sweet corn for winter use. Now the gals in the city can buy it in the shape of roasting ears already dry enough.

HE MEANT BUSINESS
A man with frayed elbows on his suit was looking into a stockbroker's office as we passed yesterday. We stopped to look in, too.

"Quite a place," we ventured. "A lot of people lose money fooling with the stock market."

"I wasn't fooling," he said, sadly. "It was the stock market that was fooling me."

Not for passion's thrill am I starving.

Or for words to light vanity's flame.

But I'm starved for the mutual expressions

Which we used in love's blissful game.

I hunger for words kind and tender,

And a smile which helps banish grim fears.

They all seem so rarely given,

Should have shared them through many long years.

One of the nicest things a father can hear from a son is that the son thinks he is smart and that he has great confidence in his judgment.

In order to get back to the United States, quite a few tourists are working their way back on ships from Europe. Bet some of those birds never worked in their lives before. Some will work rather than be killed.

A Columbia professor says the average man can tell all he knows in two hours. Yes, after that he starts talking about women.

We are glad we did not get in touch with Mars after all, because they would probably have tried to borrow money from us.

Pap says he searched the building ordinance in vain before he built his home, trying to get out of the saxophone district.

Good usage in business correspondence now demands that the typewritten letter close with the signature typed out below a space left for it to be written with a pen. Our grandfathers prided themselves on the legibility of their penmanship but the modern generation takes pride in designing a hieroglyphic that is as indecipherable as it is characteristic. Therefore, it must be translated if the signed does not want the reply to go astray because his John Hancock has been decided as "Julia Hardcock."

Reader's Questions Answered
Dear Miss Markel: I will be married in October or November and would like to wear chiffon. Would this be all right? What would you suggest? What should my attendants wear?—R. M.
Answer: Ivory satin or chiffon velvet would be better for a late Fall wedding. Velvet in Fall shades would be very attractive for your attendants. Chiffon is a summer material.
Dear Miss Markel: When I entertain at dinner a young bride and an older woman, who should be given the seat of honor?—Hostess.
Answer: If it is the bride's first dinner in your home after her return from her honeymoon she may be given the seat of honor, the older woman being seated to the left of the host.

Russo-German Pact Proves Shock
May Have Bearing On 1940 Result
Republicans Discouraged By Turn

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Britain and France were no more shocked by the Russo-German bargain than this country's Republican party was. The G. O. P.'s leadership was pretty well satisfied with the 1940 political outlook until that dicker was announced. It reckoned that it stood a reasonably good chance to lick President Roosevelt if he tried for a third term. If he didn't, but named the Democratic candidate, Republican hope was that the anti-New Deal Democrats would quite generally vote Republicanly or maybe put up a ticket of their own, making a G. O. P. victory a fairly strong probability. On the other hand, if John N. Garner, for instance, were nominated it was foreseen that New Deal Democracy would stay home on election day, still giving the G. O. P. a tremendous advantage. And the Republicans didn't believe that an acceptable compromise Democratic could be agreed on. The G. O. P. strategists figured that they had a cinch, almost.

The Blow Falls

Then that Russo-German hook-up descended into the situation, like a streak of lightning out of the blue. "If," said the Republican bosses, "another world war begins, the cry immediately will be raised, 'Don't change horses in the midst of such an awful torrent.' And if war doesn't follow, F. D. I'll get the credit for having prevented it by his incomparable diplomatic management."

So the Republicans were quite thoroughly discouraged for the present, anyway. "A few weeks ago," a prominent one told me the other day, "the future looked bright as a dollar. Who knows now, though?"

All economic arguments have gone by the board, the whole thing's a matter of international psychology. That's how politicians calculate. They have an academic interest in the rest of the world's affairs, but their main concern is with the outer world's reactions in their home ball-wickets.

As to Japan?

I ventured the prediction recently that the Russo-German pact might result in a Japanese revolt. The Jap cabinet has quit already. That isn't equivalent to a revolution. Theoretically, it's only on a par with an electoral change of American administrations.

All the same, it means more than that.

Japan had a war raging in China and it's licked at it. Russia, in effect, has joined China. The Japs couldn't lick the Chinese alone. Now the Chinese are joined by Russia. It isn't only that the Jap militarists have been walloped by these Chinese; they've got to do a lot of explaining to their home folk. Cynical Japan is long suffering, but it's liable to have its limits. When it gets to 'em it may yet turn on the militarists.

It would be a joke if China, instead of being gobbled by Japan should turn out to be the dominant country.

If that happens, China probably will be Russianized instead of being Japanized which may not be much of an improvement. Still, the Chinese are a very democratic people in their own peculiar way. Perhaps they'll stay so, anyway.

Latin America, What?

Latin America isn't turning perceptibly Germanic.

The Latin American republics have some German spots in them, though.

But the folk in these German spots are principally descendants of German refugees (like ours in Wisconsin and thereabouts) who were driven into exile, as liberals, by the German uprising in the 1840's.

Their traditions are democratic. They're not Hitleristic. They're the type who "fit mit Sigel" in the American War of Secession; like Carl Schurz, one of the most liberal senators in United States history.

In short, our new world liberalism, as liberalism, is largely German.

The Great Game Of Politics

The Stettinius Board

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2. THE THREAT of European war, in which most thoughtful men think that soon or late, we would become involved emphasizes the importance of the recently named War Resources Board and of Mr. Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., its chairman.

THIS BOARD is the Roosevelt equivalent of the old Wilson War Industries Board. Should war come to us, it would be charged with the stupendous job of mobilizing the industrial resources of the nation. No adequate—or even plausible—explanation has yet been given why Mr. Roosevelt in reorganizing the War Industries Board under a new name totally ignored Mr. B. M. Baruch, and the members of the old board who functioned during the last war with an efficiency unmatched by any other war agency and whose experience in the event of another war would be of incalculable value to the nation.

INSTEAD, he has chosen as head of the new board a handsome and engaging young man, who was exactly 13 years old at the outbreak of the last war and is now 38. That his age is not a handicap is a great deal of wealth and power admittedly had something to do with it.

NEVERTHELESS, those who attribute his present position wholly to his Morgan connection make as great a mistake as those who insist that nothing but his own brains and energy are responsible. There have been plenty of other sons of Morgan partners who have not become competent heads of great business concerns, who, in fact, have not become anything worth speaking about. Perhaps Mr. Stettinius would not have had so spectacular a business success had his father not been a Morgan partner, but that fact alone would not have got him where he is. He had to have a lot of stuff himself.

A GOOD many more or less cloudy suggestions as to why and how Mr. Roosevelt picked him for head of the new board have been put out recently by Administration spokesmen. Ordinarily, any connection with the House of Morgan would have been sufficient to have barred him from New Deal consideration. It is the House of Morgan which the demagogues chiefly have in mind when they howl about the "international bankers" who they charge, foment war for personal profit. It is encouraging to have the President disregard that sort of slush in an effort to get the best equipped men for a vitally important job.

HOWEVER, without in any way disparaging Mr. Stettinius and the very excellent men chosen as his colleagues, the plain truth is that the President passed over the best-equipped men and refused to profit by experience. For this quite obvious fact, the most faithful ally of the President, the White House "inner circle" assign two reasons. One is that had Mr. Roosevelt named Mr. Baruch, who was clearly the logical man, Mr. Baruch would have accepted only on condition that he could have as aides the experienced men who were on the old board with him and who are still available.

NOW, it is distinctly true that for some of these men, most of whom are unsympathetic with the basic New Deal policy of deficit financing, and spending-lending, Mr. Roosevelt has a strong personal distaste. Particularly, he has a distaste for Gen. Hugh Johnson, who has become one of his most outspoken and caustic critics. The other reason is that in one way or another, Mr. Stettinius has endeavored himself personally to that very in-

DESERTION AND NON-SUPPORT CASES HEARD

Desertion and non-support cases are being heard today by Judges W. Walter Braham and Thomas W. Dickey. At the conclusion of the testimony the judges make orders directing weekly or monthly payments to wives. These payments are made to Parole Officer Jack M. Dunlap, who turns the money over to those entitled to it. There has been a large increase in desertion and non-support cases during the past few years, due in part to the depression.

USE FALL CONTROL FOR CHECKING ANTHRACNOSE

Raspberry patches in some communities are being attacked by anthracnose. This is a disease, however, that can be controlled rather easily.

Where the disease has made its appearance, it is a good plan to spray the canes with summer strength liquid lime sulfur having a specific gravity of 1.006. It is important that the disease be reduced to a minimum at this time to prevent its overwintering and causing trouble next spring.

Much of the fungus that developed during the summer can be destroyed by burning the old canes. This will be a definite help in the control of the disease.

TURKEY NEED MINERALS FOR GOOD BONE GROWTH

Most turkey mashers contain enough minerals for the first eight weeks of their life, but because of the increased requirements later for fast bone growth, it may be necessary to add more minerals.

Poulters should have access to oyster shell or limestone grit after they are six to eight weeks old. Many turkey growers find that growing poulters consume larger amounts of insoluble or non-calcium grit if they do not have calcium sources. When given free access to calcium minerals and insoluble grit, they will consume a moderate amount of both.

Granite is one of the leading sources of insoluble grit. The minerals in granite are almost insoluble so that their chief function in the gizzard of a bird is as an aid in grinding food. Calcium carbonate is the principal mineral in the soluble grits. It is readily broken down by the turkey's digestive system and assimilated by the body.

Common sources of calcium grit are oyster shell, limestone, marble and calcite. Although they are fed chiefly to aid bone development, they may assist the gizzards in grinding feeds.

After turkeys are eight weeks old, it is a safe practice to keep both calcium and insoluble grits before them. It helps keep grit consumption at a moderate level.

NESTS ESSENTIAL PART ON RANGE EQUIPMENT

Nests are an important part of the range equipment on most leading poultry farms. On many farms, special batteries of nests are placed between the range shelters. On other, nests are provided at the rear of the shelters.

One way to get cannibalism started in a flock is to allow the pullets to lay on the ground and on the floor of the brooder houses or shelters. Once the birds begin to lay on the floor, it is hard to break them of the habit, even after they are moved to the laying house. Eggs are kept cleaner when nests are provided.

Production will take a sudden drop when birds are laying heavily on the range and are changed abruptly to new quarters. It is best to catch them when they will be disturbed least. This may be done at night, putting them in coops from which they are released in the laying house early the next morning.

To provide comfortable quarters for the pullets, the laying houses must be well ventilated or insulated.

OLD FASHIONED MULCHING BOOSTS RASPBERRY YIELD

Small fruits that should do well, but do not, often can be coaxed along with mulching, an old fashioned but too seldom used treatment.

In a field at the United States Horticultural Station, Beltsville, Md., George M. Darrow, small fruit specialist of the Federal Bureau of Plant Industry, made several attempts to grow red raspberries with uniform results, despite the use of adequate fertilizers, and in most seasons, an adequate moisture supply.

Beltsville is near the southern limits of raspberry growing and ordinarily considered too hot and humid.

Four years ago an experiment was begun in which two 400-foot rows were mulched with rye straw at the rate of 8 tons to the acre. Two more 400-foot rows were given ordinary care and clean cultivation.

Dr. Darrow reports striking results. At the end of the third season the mulched raspberries had a 100 per cent stand compared with 80 per cent for the cultivated rows. The total cane or vine length of the mulched berries was four times as great as for the cultivated plot. The root system of the mulched berries also was four times that of the cultivated berries. The yield was 150 quarts of berries from the mulched rows compared with 31 quarts from the cultivated rows.

A soil temperature record at 2 to 3 inches deep was kept on the two plots during 1938. The air temperature ranged from 9 to 102 degrees. The soil temperatures for the cultivated plot ranged from 21 to 101 degrees. For the mulched rows, the soil temperature ranged only from 30 to 90 degrees. Thus the straw mulch served much as roof insulation in a house, keeping out hot air in the summer and holding in warm air in the winter.

Organic material, such as cereal straw, tree leaves, sugarcane, bagasse, waste from sorghum mills, and even saw dust may be used as a mulching material. Such outstanding differences in yield as those of Beltsville Station possibly won't be obtained in most instances where a mulch is used, he says, but there is no doubt that a mulch helps the berry plants along.

HELP CHILD DEVELOP RESPECT FOR PROPERTY

"Mother! John has my best new tie!"

"Well, I can't find mine," replies John. How familiar is this conversation to most mothers.

Miss Julia Markie, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County, says that authorities on child guidance agree that this is a lesson which should be learned early in the life of the child. There is need for careful planning in every family if each child is to learn to take care of his own belongings and have respect for the property of others in the family. This is especially true when closet, shelf and drawer space are at a minimum.

If the two-year old has a corner in which he may keep his toys or a shelf of the bookcase where his books belong, it will be easier for him to grasp the idea of what is his and what is not his.

If a mother can give the child a drawer and say, "You can keep anything you want to here. I will not open your drawer and you need not open mine," the child will treasure a feeling of privacy and security.

Miss Markie states further that it is true that children need lessons in sharing but they need to have some things which are their own. They need to know how others feel about personal possessions.

If there are two or more children in the family, each one should have some place which is his own, no matter how small it may be. No two children have exactly the same habits, and in order that each one may develop his own personality, his growth should not be hampered by the influence of a brother or sister. For example, a girl learns to take more pride in keeping her clothes neat, if she knows that her sister is not going to search among her possessions for something which may please her fancy.

An ideal arrangement, Miss Markie suggests, is one where each child may have a room of his own. Where this is not possible, separate desks for study, certain hooks and cupboard space designated for each child does help. Even the young child enjoys his tooth brush, face cloth, and towel hung at a height which is within easy reach.

If you know of a child who has difficulty distinguishing between "yours" and "mine" study the situation. Perhaps you can be a help in guiding him to grow up with ideas which will make it easy for him to make his social adjustment in this world.

Frank J. Nugent Council Candidate

Present Disposal Plant Superintendent Announces For Republican Nomination

FRANK J. NUGENT

Frank J. Nugent, superintendent of the disposal plant for the City of New Castle today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination to city council.

Mr. Nugent has been a resident and a taxpayer in New Castle for thirty-seven years, coming here originally in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Leaving the railroad work he engaged in construction work for a number of years and is familiar with all the problems in construction work.

For the past ten years he has been the superintendent of the disposal plant and his work there has attracted the attention of many third class cities of the state. His success in operating the plant is partially due to the fact that he was engaged for a time in the construction of such plants. His statement follows:

"I am a candidate for the Republican nomination to city council because I believe I am fitted to perform the duties of the office. As a councilman in New Castle need not be a specialist in any one line, he should be a man of judgment, a man who knows the value of a dollar, a man who is familiar with the problems of the city today."

"I am nominated and elected I expect to ride no political hobbies, nor use I believe I am fitted to perform the duties of the office. As a councilman in New Castle need not be a specialist in any one line, he should be a man of judgment, a man who knows the value of a dollar, a man who is familiar with the problems of the city today."

Senator Borah To Fight Changes In Neutrality Law

Tells Americans To Stand Firm Against Any Foreign Entanglements

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Warning that the surest road to war is to allow the United States to become Europe's "arsenal for mass murder," Senator William E. Borah (R) of Idaho today served blunt notice on the administration that he would fight efforts to repeal the arms embargo provisions of the neutrality law.

In a telephone interview from Poland Spring, Me., where he is vacationing, the famed "lion" of the senate declared that "this is the time for the American people to stand firmly on their feet against foreign entanglements of any kind."

The gray-haired veteran, who was one of the leaders in the victorious battle against American entrance into the League of Nations and the World Court 20 years ago, was visibly stirred by what he termed the "imperialistic war" abroad.

"Conflict in Europe has been habitual for centuries," he said. "If they do choose to fight, that is their concern."

"It is the time to be calm and to resolve that if Europe must fight we must have no part of it. I am opposed to repeal of the provision in the existing neutrality law for an embargo upon all arms, ammunition and implements of war to belligerents."

SHOULD EFFICIENCY BE REWARDED?

You do not discharge an employe who has given you efficient service. You do not change your business organization every four years. Isn't it just as logical that a public official who has served you well should be retained for a second term? For four years I have served you as a county commissioner. I submit my record as justification for a second term.

LACK OF THYROID IN A BABY MAY CAUSE MENTAL RETARDATION

One well-known cause of mental retardation in babies is lack of thyroid. Fortunately this is one type that we definitely know we can do something for and it is especially fortunate that the baby with this deficiency presents a picture easily recognized by a medical man shortly after birth.

In the first place, the baby is very dull and lethargic. He sleeps much more than the normal child, and his expression is dull and heavy. I know that these symptoms were mentioned in connection with mental retardation from other causes, but these are not the only characteristics which mark the lack of thyroid. The child also seems to have a body out of all proportion to his legs, for the legs are not growing as they should. At the same time the skin is dry and rough and the hair is coarse and wiry. In this type of child also the tongue habitually seems to be protruding from his mouth. That is a pretty complete picture of a child with thyroid deficiency.

This condition can be treated by giving thyroid extract through the mouth, and if this treatment is begun early the child will overcome this handicap and develop into a normal person with average intelligence. However, the efficiency of the cure depends on how soon the deficiency is recognized and treatment begun.

For instance, if the case isn't diagnosed until the baby is a year or more old, there is a great chance that despite the treatments the child will be slightly subnormal. If it isn't recognized and treated until the child is three or four years of age, then the chance of his developing to average intelligence is remote. In all probability he will be unable to take a normal place in life, beside others.

So you see the great necessity of watching a child, to make sure that its development is normal. It won't take a watchful mother long to sense that there is something wrong with her baby.

As compared with other types of mental deficiency, the thyroid deficient is lucky for if his trouble is recognized and he is properly treated he will grow into a normal adult. When he first goes to school he may be duller than his classmates, but proper treatments will help him to "catch up."

Another type of baby born with an abnormal brain is the hydrocephalic—water on the brain. These are very distressing cases, because the baby's head is very large and often causes a great deal of trouble to the mother at birth. In some cases I have tapped the skull of such a baby and drawn off the water there, but I never found that this helped. At any rate, it should not be done except by experts.

These unfortunate children usually die early in life and until they do they are a problem for that big heavy head is too heavy for them to handle. Occasionally one whose condition isn't too bad survives and when they do, strange to say, they are often exceedingly bright.

Please remember that a baby of this type is no reflection upon the parents. They are born to a kind of people although at times I have thought they were born more often to the brighter and more brainy couples.

False Alarms To Bring Prosecution

Growing Number Of False Alarms Arouses Fire Chief
A. P. McIlwain

Aroused by the growing number of false alarms which have been turned in of late, Fire Chief A. P. McIlwain announced today that strict surveillance will be kept of the boxes in the different sections of the city, and the full extent of the law will be invoked, where anyone is caught.

Some people fail to realize the danger when a false alarm is sent in. Oftentimes as many as a half dozen fire companies are called into action. If an alarm should be turned in from another section of the city for a bona fide fire, the department would not be at the station to answer the alarm and valuable time would be lost.

In addition, the lives of the firemen and other citizens are endangered whenever an alarm is answered, besides the waste in operating the vehicles needlessly.

Box 43 was pulled at 11:35 p.m. Friday, calling several departments out as it is in the downtown section. Those who pulled the box were seen and it is likely that prosecution of those responsible will result.

Have You Met Smilin' Sam?

SMILIN' Sam is a big, husky, hard working deliveryman. Say, you ought to watch that fellow lift something heavy! He's strong as an ox, yet gentle as a kitten when it comes to handling furniture.

All day long Smilin' Sam drives our truck... sometimes to points 100 miles away because we give free delivery that far. It's hard work. But Smilin' Sam never seems to get tired... never gets mad... never loses his temper.

Customers tell us when he totes a big, heavy piece of furniture up to their doors, he comes up smiling.

And when he gets into the house, he doesn't drop that furniture like a hot potato and run.

No sir! Smilin' Sam asks you where you want it placed... and then he takes it over to that spot and gently slides it into place.

This big, happy deliveryman is typical of the people you will meet in this friendly store. We're mighty proud of our loyal organization. They're pleasant, courteous, accommodating. You'll find it a pleasure to trade with them.

Come in and get acquainted.

Sunnyside School First Reunion Is Held At Cascade

Upwards Of 175 Attend First
Sunnyside School Reunion;
Will Be Held Annually
At Park

Former teachers, pupils and their families of the old Sunnyside school gathered at Cascade park on Thursday for their first reunion. The occasion, an overwhelming success, attracted upwards of 175 for the all day outing.

Greetings and the renewing of friendships made the day a merry one, inasmuch as a number of the group hadn't seen one another for 40 or more years, and didn't even recognize each other.

The eldest was Andrew Glasser, who is in his 90th year, and a resident of the Ellwood-New Castle road. The eldest teacher, Mrs. Mary Burton Ralph of Park avenue, told of her teaching experiences 63 years ago, when she taught for $12 per month. James Ramsey of Rose Point taught for $25 per month in four-month terms during his day. He has four children, all of whom are teachers, two of the group also taught in Sunnyside.

Nine teachers were in attendance, as follows: Mrs. Mary Burton Ralph, James E. Ramsey, Mary E. Watson of Anna Marie, Fla.; Mrs. Anna Burdette McCune of South Heights; Mrs. Daisy Shaffer Myers, Mrs. Elsie Ramsey Trusel, Mrs. Gladys White Stoner, Mrs. Rhoda Mershimer Book and Miss Mary E. Ramsey.

A full course picnic dinner was served at noon in the grove, and following, letters were read from C. C. Cunningham and wife Maude Cameron Cunningham of California. Mrs. Bessie Allison Gillespie of Berda, Wash., and Miss Kathryn McCandless Milheim of Butler, Pa. It was decided to meet again for a similar outing in 1940 at the same place on the last day of August. Herbert Rodgers of Butler was elected president during the business period, and Mrs. Iva Boston Gorman is secretary and treasurer. Committee heads were also named. Guests represented Florida, Michigan, Ohio, Mercer, Grove City, South Heights, Beaver Falls, Ellwood City, Harmony and the immediate vicinity.

Cunningham sustained head injuries for which he was treated in the Jameson Memorial hospital, police report. Hogue paid for the damage to the window, which cost $58.00, police added. They were charged officially with being intoxicated and disorderly.

Mayor McGrath also planned to hear the case of Lawrence Weston, 630 South Ray street, who allegedly, while intoxicated, shoved his hand through a window in Hunter's saloon. He was treated for the wound at the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Slovaks To Play Bessemer Sunday In Series Game

Second Game Of County Championship Series Will Be Played At Bessemer

JANOSKI OR COATES TO OPPOSE HARDESTY

The second game of the current Lawrence County championship baseball series will be played Sunday at the Bessemer Field at 3 o'clock (weather permitting). Should the game be called off Sunday it will be played Monday (Labor Day) at the same field, it was announced by both managers today.

Bessemer has the edge, having won the first game at Cedar Street on Thursday night, 5 to 4 in a fast battle. It was Leroy Anderson and Snyder who staged a great hurling duel Thursday. Sunday it will be either Twello Janoski or Mike "Browns" Coates who will do the pitching for the Slovak team. The Bessemer flinger will no doubt according to Mr. Nord the manager be Hardesty. The Slovaks are fighting now with their backs to the wall having dropped the first game and will fight hard to try and take the game Sunday at Bessemer and even up the series. It is bound to be a fast game and in the event of good weather, the Bessemer field will no doubt be jammed to capacity strength.

All-Stars Will Play Bessemer Tuesday Evening

The All-Stars of the Lawrence County League picked recently by Leo W. Hill will play the Bessemer team, county league champs at Lockley Field Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock, it was announced. The game is a benefit for an injured county league player.

Any player that was chosen by Mr. Hill who cannot be at the field next Tuesday are asked to call Hill at 4444 before Tuesday afternoon.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

From now until they crawl into the Arena ring September 11, fighters who will appear on the Tigers card will be in heavy training for what may prove the most exciting fight production yet staged by amateurs in this city. The calendar is crowded with district, Golden Gloves and a national champion, Smokey Robinson of Oil City, a fighter who has made good here and who captured the lightweight championship of the amateurs in the United States, will take on Allen Reed of Pittsburgh. Another fighter, Tampa Kid, McKeesport, will battle Sully Tonti, the Midland rugged middleweight. The Tampa Kid fought weight. The Tampa Kid fought once here and had the fans amazed with his cleverness. Frankie Moran, New Castle featherweight who grows better pugilistically with each succeeding day, will take on Georgie Theus of McKeesport. Indications, although early, point to a sell-out.

Thirty drivers have entered cars in the National Sweepstakes to be run Monday at Altoona. Precise, driven by Vic Fleming, won the $2,500 Governor's Consolation trot at Syracuse. ### High Gridders Back In Town

Final Camp Practice Held This Morning, Will Resume Training Next Tuesday

TEAM IS SHAPING UP RATHER WELL

Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon the New Castle High school football team returned to the city all tanned and hardened up after a pleasant but strenuous week at their camp at Muddy Creek Falls.

The final practice session began at 9:30 o'clock this morning and ended at 11 o'clock. The boys had dinner and then orders went out for a general packing up of the belongings.

Considerable work has been accomplished by the week in camp. The first team is shaping up fine. The boys are tackling better than they did last year. It looks like a fast backfield, plus a fairly heavy line this year and the outlook has looked a lot worse in other years.

Not Many Injuries
Surprising this year was the low number of injuries in camp—Chuck Pullock had a leg injury and Joe Genger a cut over his eye for the only really serious bruises. Larry Roberts had a twisted ankle, but is much better. No real honest to goodness scrimmage sessions were indulged in.

Starting next Tuesday at the stadium, the real workouts will take place and the polish applied to smooth off the rough edges that cropped up in camp. Butler High will be in the lineups at the stadium on the night of Friday, September 15—New Castle High's Red Hurricane will be ready—Phil H. Bridenbaugh.

All-Stars To Meet Champions Tuesday

Lawrence League All-Stars Clash With Bessemer Here

BESSEMER HAS WON FIVE CHAMPIONSHIPS

What should prove a classic will be staged by an all-star team and Bessemer, 1939 champions of the Lawrence county baseball league, at 5 p. m. Tuesday on Lockley field. The game will be a benefit for Phil Cole, Frisco infielder, who broke an ankle recently.

The All-Stars have been selected from county circuit teams and indications are it may resolve into a pitchers' battle. Messrs. Nord and Stanley will lead Bessemer. Leo Hill, president, Lawrence County Baseball Umpires association, will pilot the All-Stars.

Wayne Puromaki, a right hander, has been picked to take over the hurling duties for Bessemer. Should he fall by the wayside, Hardesty or Tomasello, left handers, can be pressed into service and Snyder is as apt as either of them to take Puromaki's place if he goes bad.

Upgrades of the Red Sox, Fernande of the Hot Tops or Komora of Ellwood City will start on the mound for the All-Stars. Greco of Ellwood City or Winters of Wampum will do the backstopping for them while Anderson or Vlah will catch for the 1939 champions.

The rest of the All-Stars will be selected from players as follows: First base, Muse, Red Sox, or Tropea of Hillwood; Friedhoff of Ellwood City will cover second. Calderaro of Hillville or Fabio of the Hot Tops will play third. Scala of Wampum or Guzzetti of the Hot Tops will cavort at short.

The outfield will be composed as follows: Right, R. Butcher of Wampum; center, Grist of Hillville or Kregish of Frisco, and left, Fontana of Wampum or Calderaro of Hillville.

Bessemer won championships of the league in 1934, 36, 37, 38 and 39 and in 1933 was runner-up.

Local Briefs—Four ex-New Castle high star athletes will enter Slippery Rock this fall, according to Merle "Red" McIntosh. They are: Jim Howley, Tom Carey, "Chinkie" Dutkin and Tony Piccuto. . . . New Castle's 39 Hurricane will look like a miniature college aggregation, according to locals who have seen the squad in action. . . . Hillsville's 1926 county league champs return to the diamond on Labor Day to battle the present Hillsville combination at Hillsville in an annual attraction. The game starts at three o'clock. The old-timers include: Pepe, catcher; Riley, pitcher; Giovenallo, first baseman; Kennedy, second baseman; A. Conti, shortstop; S. Genova, third base; Messina, right field; P. Conti, left field, and Grist, centerfield.

With the exceptions of three or four players, many new faces will be working around Polo Grounds when the 1940 scramble begins. Even "Zeke" Bonura is on the block. Terry, who smiles once in a great while, is behind it all. Terry can't stand a loser, whether he's playing ping-pong, hop scotch, pinochle or baseball. For this reason he will do something drastic. . . . Joe DiMaggio is proving that a good hitter hits 'em any place. On the present road trip DiMag's mark is Conn-Bettina—Whatever you do, don't sell Melio Bettina short when he crawls through the ropes for his second clash with Conn. Much is being said about Conn. Bettina on the other hand, is occupying a place in the last row. While Billy is feasting on this publicity, Bettina is fashioning a style, a way to get past Conn's chief and only weapon, a tantalizing left. They say the Beacon had the solution. If it be the case, Conn will take a beating, maybe even suffer a kayo. Bettina's punch and power are too much for a physique such as Conn's. In the titular scrap Bettina nearly jack-knifed Conn in the closing rounds.

Stock Market
Higher TodayMarket Fails To Maintain
Stride And Gains Are Cut
In Half Before CloseBy LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Booming prices for steel shares and other "war babies" brought another big rise in the stock market today but the pace was not maintained and gains were cut nearly in half by the close.

Leaders were up 1 to 7 points at their highs, and retained fractions to 4 points in late trading.

A wave of buying swept the list from the opening and quickly sent the ticker three minutes behind. Turnover in the first hour alone was 1,020,000 shares, or half yesterday's full total. The ticker also fell behind briefly in the rush to take profits in the second hour.

Rarely has the market seen an opening as spectacular. Republic Steel started with 10,000 shares, biggest opening block, and up 1 1/4 points.

Big Blocks Sold
Bethlehem Steel opened at 70 on 7,000 shares for an overnight jump of 5 points on top of its run of 7 1/4 points yesterday. U. S. Steel opened on 7,500 shares at 54 1/2, up 2 1/2 points.

Other big blocks were 5,000 shares each in General Motors, Anaconda and American Zinc, Lead &amp; Smelting, 4,700 Curtiss Wright common, and 3,500 Kennecott. Elsewhere blocks of 1,000 shares and more were common.

There were a number of exceptions to the first hour uptrend. Utilities were backward, and North American was down a point at one time. The rails were moderately better but minus the activity in other sections.

The biggest individual gain was in DuPont, which ran up 7 points at its high. It lost around half of this in the second hour selling.

Chrysler retained only a fraction of a rise of more than 2 points. General Motors was up over a point.

Aviation Stocks Gain
Gains in the aviation ran but more than 3 points in Boeing, but gains were reduced by the close. There was heavy buying in the copper shares, with gains at the high running to more than 3 points in Anaconda.

Allied Chemical was up over 5 points.

Oils were heavily bought as traders searched around for groups to benefit from the threatened general hostilities. Continental Oil came out in a block of 4,000 shares at a 3-point rise. Texas rose 2 points and Standard of New Jersey nearly as much.

WARSAW, Sept. 2.—Polish citizens are being murdered in the German-occupied section of Pomerania, the Polish foreign office charged today in an official communique.

The statement claimed also that many women and children had been killed by German air raiders. The communique followed an official announcement that a "state of war exists" between Poland and Germany.

It added: "Poland has not asked Britain and France for help because it is confident that aid would be automatic."

In addition to the alleged massacre of Poles in Pomerania, the official statement said the many women and children had been killed in yesterday's air raids and that Warsaw had been bombed six times today.

Fighting of a "most serious nature" was officially reported in process along the entire length of the Polish-German battle front.

Senseless War Declares Hoover

Former President Utters Stirring Plea To Keep U. S. Out Of War

(International News Service) SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—A plea for America to "keep out of this war" was made last night by former President Herbert Hoover.

America's only living ex-president delivered his anti-war message in a national broadcast carried by NBC last night.

"America must keep out of this war and the president and congress should be supported in their every effort to keep us out," Hoover warned.

"This is one of the saddest weeks that has come to humanity in 100 years," he continued. "A senseless war seems inevitably forced upon hundreds of millions of people. It means the killing of millions of the best and most courageous of men who might contribute to human progress. It means the killing and starvation of millions of women and children. It means another quarter of a century of impoverishment to the whole world."

"It will likely be a long war. It is possible that the brave people of Poland may be overrun in a few months. But there seems no hint of access from which an overwhelming attack can be delivered from the British and French on one side and the Germans and Italians on the other. It is likely to be a war of slow attrition."
